BIG LABOR DAY BILL AT THE AUDITORIUM.

The Auditorium celebrates Labor day by offering the biggest show of the season, so far, and a bill that is calculated to please everyone.

The first comedy musical act of the season, and the headliner of the present show, is the Millar Musical Trio, renowned instrumentalists, in melodious harmony in black and white. The comedy element in this act is furnished by a clear Mark act is furnished. ous harmony in black and white. The comedy element in this act is furnished by a clever black-face comedian who is also an accomplished musician. Harry Bestry is one of the most up to date comedians, who combines good singing and neat dancing with goodnatured humor that is catching. Knockabout acrobatic comedy is something that appeals allke to young and old, and this is furnished by the well-known team of Savoy Varo & Sack, a team of well known comedy gymnasts, who were late clowns with Ringling Bros, circus. Their act is a ludicrous absurdity entitled "Fun in a Chinese Laundry," and it is one long continued laugh.

reputation for the best pictures, and this reputation will be upheld with the following subjects today: The City, a drams enacted by the Rellance All-fear Stock company: Dorothy's Family, a laughable comedy by the favorite lan company, and Darkfeather, the Squaw, one of the popular Bison Indian photoplays.

BREED THEATER.

The Badge of Courage, the splendid feature picture at the Breed today, presents Miss Alice Joyce, the hand-some emotional actress, in the charac-ter part of Jane Mayfield. Jane has a Tom Fuller, and the engaged pair decide to join a party to recreate at the seashore. Tom has an inherited fear of the water, so when Jane swims out beyond the safety line and calls lustily beyond the safety line and calls lostly for Tom, his old fear stops him at the water's edge. She is saved by others of the party, and she denounces him as a coward. He attempts later to write a letter to her, but while writing he receives a call from her on the labour anylong that whe is locked in saying that she is locked in her father's business office and the huilding is on fire. He hurriedly mounts his motorcycle, and arriving at the door, breaks it in, saving her at the risk of his own life. The next day, calling at Jane's home, expinations take place, and the past is forgotten. A powerful western story is another attraction, and the Biograph is down for two excellent comedies.

Some unusually fine Edison films are on the programme, too, and the whole bill fairly teems with sparkling beauty and merit, and the patrons of the Breed are sure of satisfying entertainment.

LOST IN THE FIELDS.

The little cares that freited me,
I lost them yesterday
Among the fields above the sea.
Among the winds at play;
Among the lowing of the herds,
The rustling of the trees,
Among the sligling of the birds,
The humming of the bees;
The foolish fears of what may happen
I east them all away
Among the clover-scented grass,
Among the new-mown hay;
Among the husking of the corn.
Where drowsy popples nod.
Where ill thoughts die and good are

Cast shadows o'er the sand?
Have you seen the smile of the desert
At the close of a restful day?
Each breeze goes by like a woman's sigh. And here you would live alway.

Have you felt the fangs of the desert.

The sting of its poisoned days,
When the cruel sun is gleaming
On spear-lined, dusty ways?
Have you felt the breath of the desert
When the lips of the wand'rer swell,
When the breezes leap o'er the gulches deep
From the open doors of hell.

Have you felt the breath of the desert.

In the noontime's shimmering veil, when the sky is molten copper.

And the sands have hid the trails Have you felt the claws of the desert. When the old canteen is dry.

And you quit the fight and pray for night.

That in darkness you may die?

Arthur Chapman, in the Denver Republican.
